- 12 Q. What's the difference between the 13 two positions?
- 14 The district manager at Rite Aid

- The report, as I remember it

Page 54

¹ words, but let me -- I think I can still answer ² the question, though.

So if a particular store was ⁴ blocked on a particular base code and the store

⁵ sends an email or calls their PDM and says, hey, ⁶ you know, something's wrong here, I just tried to

⁷ order this product and I have got a notation that

8 I can't order it, that I'm being blocked.

The pharmacy district manager ¹⁰ then would basically determine or gauge, okay, 11 what -- you know, why is this being blocked. ¹² Hopefully they're familiar with the program. If

13 not, they would probably call out and ask. 14 And then they would, you know, 15 take a look at or inquire of the pharmacist or 16 the store, you know, okay, you know, what's -what's driving this need? Did you have a, you 18 know, a recent pour over, you know, they could

¹⁹ evaluate whether, you know, there's significant ²⁰ organic growth.

21 That's why I was talking about 22 the business reasons, part of this. There's a ²³ number of different business reasons that ²⁴ would -- would drive those things.

¹ example. So, for instance, when I first moved ² into the town I grew up in, it was one square

³ mile, with a very small population. Ten years

4 later, it's gigantic with a huge -- you know,

⁵ much, much larger population. New businesses,

6 new providers. You know, if a new hospital opens

⁷ up next to the pharmacy or an existing hospital

now opens a cancer unit.

We talked about pour overs and file buys. That's a -- that's certainly a big one. Reasons like that.

You mentioned another name or another term, "file buy." What is that? And that's B-U-Y?

A. It is. And actually, file buy is ¹⁶ really just another name for a pour over. I shouldn't have caused confusion there, because that's really the same thing. It's just -- some people call it file buy, some people call it a 20 pour over.

21 O. So a file buy, in this instance, would be one pharmacy buying the business from another pharmacy; is that right?

Yes. It's the same thing I

12

You used the term "pour over." 1 2 What do you mean by that?

Okay. So a pour over is kind of A. ⁴ an industry accepted term. And basically what a ⁵ pour over is is when an existing pharmacy closes

6 down or is going to go out of business, whether

⁷ it's a chain or an independent, for obvious

8 reasons, it can't just like close and shutter its

⁹ doors and the people that, you know, have 10 prescriptions there are basically stuck with 11 nowhere to go.

So what happens is those existing ¹³ prescriptions, those -- those files, those 14 patient records basically get acquired by another pharmacy. So a pour over is where one pharmacy ¹⁶ is basically acquiring the business, the pharmacy business of an existing pharmacy that is closing 18 down.

19 And what are some of the things that would drive significant growth in the prescriptions that a pharmacy would be 22 experiencing?

23 There's a number of them. I would say there's -- organic growth would be one ¹ described earlier.

So in the process that you ³ outlined, if the pharmacy district manager finds

4 out that one of the pharmacies he or she is

⁵ managing has a need to increase its threshold,

the process first is that they contact that pharmacy and understand what the reason is for that threshold increase; is that right?

MR. LAVELLE: Object to form. 10 THE WITNESS: That's generally 11 correct, because they're going to have to provide that reason when they respond.

13 BY MR. SIMMER:

Q. As part of doing that due diligence to determine whether to increase the threshold, do I have it right that the district manager would need to go look at the dispensing data from the pharmacy?

19 A. I don't think that's correct in all cases, no. Certainly in some maybe, but not 21 in all cases.

22 Is there any part of the process along the way to get it sent up to McKesson that there's an examination of the prescribing data to

Page 58 ¹ determine what's driving the need? ¹ confirm if that was in fact true, if there had A. I would say dispensing data. But ² been a break-in. ³ again, not in every instance. Every instance is And similarly, if they indicated 4 unique. So, for example, if one of our locations ⁴ that there was a pour over, I could confirm that ⁵ was broken into at night and a significant there was in fact a recent pour over or not, 6 quantity of the drugs were stolen in a nighttime so -- but it varied situation by situation. ⁷ break-in, I don't -- and they were getting What were the sources of data O. 8 blocked by McKesson on getting product in to take that you referred to? 9 care of their customers, I don't know in that A. Yes. A little bit. So

²⁴ NaviStor/NaviScript was not a Rite Aid

24 to $2 or, you know, applying a coupon that

- ¹ shouldn't have been applied. So it's those sorts ² of activities.
- O. Do I have it right then that ⁴ NaviScript would actually see the point of sale transaction on a per-prescription basis?
- Both NaviStor and NaviScript had the ability to see information related to the cash register.
- Q. You also say in that sentence, 10 "key performance indicators."

11 And you referred to that a moment ago I think as KPI; is that right?

- 13 A. Yes. KPI is short for key performance indicator. 14
- 15 Tell us in your own words what O. ¹⁶ key performance indicators means.
- 17 So a key performance indicator would be a particular attribute or action or ¹⁹ activity that could be pulled into NaviStor or ²⁰ NaviScript that would be useful in terms of ²¹ detecting theft, detecting procedural abuses, ²² detecting policy violations of different sorts or
- ²³ nature, so... I think we understand what you O.

¹ be -- these key performance indicators could be

- ² used to detect policy violations of different
- ³ sorts or nature.
 - And what do you mean by that?
- A. So there are lots of policies 6 relative to things you can or cannot do at the
- ⁷ cash register, price modifies, voids, things like
 - that.
- So, you know, an example there
- would be -- let's say you had a cashier that was sweethearting merchandise to a customer, meaning
- basically not charging them for it. They could
- be doing that by voiding certain items in the
- transaction. And utilizing NaviStor, you could
- see that maybe you had a particular cashier at a
- particular store voiding lots of merchandise,
- which would allow you to look into that and say, okay, we might have an issue here.
- Q. Now, in the context of the DEA's concerns about controlled drug diversion, how
- were these key performance indicators used?
- So that's really NaviScript. And ²³ it evolved. So NaviScript got better and better
- and better as we added more KPIs and, you know,

Page 159

- 1 mean by a theft, but why don't you go ahead and
- ² say it again, what you mean when you reference
- ³ theft.

- 4 What is that?
 - MR. LAVELLE: Object to form.
- THE WITNESS: So theft would be a 6 7 loss of product or inventory that would
- 8 result in shrink. So when you -- when
- 9 the books say you have this amount or
- 10 dollar amount, and the physical inventory
- 11 reveals that you don't, the difference
- 12 between the two is shrink.

13 BY MR. SIMMER:

- 14 Q. You also say that the key performance indicators would be used to detect 16 procedural abuses. 17
 - What do you mean by that?
- 18 An example -- a procedural abuse 19 would be where something, you know, might be
- ²⁰ allowable to a certain degree, but, you know, you
- 21 can see from the KPI that it's being used more
- ²² than it should be. Coupon abuse would be an 23 example.
- 24
 - Q. Finally you said that they could

- But key performance indicators,
- ³ like cycle counts down, order adjustments, DSD
- ⁴ orders through telestock, you know, these are all
- ⁵ examples of KPIs that could be indicative of drug
- losses at a store.
- Q. Again, I think you're talking
- about shrinkage, though. Right?
- MR. LAVELLE: Object to form.
- 10 THE WITNESS: It is shrinkage,
- 11
- but it's certainly also drug diversion, 12
 - which is what you asked.

13 BY MR. SIMMER:

16

- 14 Q. Well, let me go through that and 15 make sure I understand.
 - You said cycle counts down.
- 17 How does that key performance
 - indicator indicate potential diversion?
- 19 Okay. So in the pharmacy like
 - the front end, there is an inventory -- PI, a
- perpetual inventory system. So the system should
- 22 know exactly how much of a given product -- and
- 23 this is true in the front end or the pharmacy --
- ²⁴ how much of a given product that store has. So a

Page 162

- ¹ thief could, for example, realize that if the
- ² thief stole X number of product off the shelf,
- ³ that now is going to indicate that there's -- you
- ⁴ know, there's only one there instead of three,
- ⁵ which means, you know, product is not going to
- ⁶ come in, inventory is not going to be accurate.
- So in order to potentially try to
- 8 hide or mask their theft, what they might do is
- ⁹ cycle count the product down to where now the
- 10 system says there's one on the shelf, even though
- 11 you just stole two. So...
- Q. In that instance, this -- you're
- 13 concerned about a Rite Aid employee actually
- ¹⁴ altering the system to make that cycle count
- ¹⁵ down. Am I right?
- A. Yes. That would be indicative of
- ¹⁷ internal theft.
- Q. You also mentioned order
- ¹⁹ adjustments as being a key performance indicator
- ²⁰ of diversion.
- Tell us what you mean by that.
- A. So the way the inventory
- ²³ replenishment system would work is the system
- ²⁴ would basically use your usage and the on-hand
 - Page 163
- ¹ numbers to determine what the order should be.
- So in the old days of pharmacy,
- ³ you would have to basically walk the shelves and,
- 4 you know, I want two of this, I want one of this.
- With a replenishment system, the
- ⁶ system knows what you dispensed, it knows what
- ⁷ you transferred, returned, those things we talked
- 8 about. And it knows what you're supposed to have
- and the second s
- ⁹ on hand.
- So the system builds the order
- 11 for you. And, you know, that's -- that's sort of
- 12 a suggested order. But both in the front end and
- 13 the pharmacy, you have the ability to adjust
- 14 orders.
- So a good example -- a good front
- ¹⁶ end example would be, I know that in an upcoming
- ¹⁷ ad, Tylenol PM is on sale. And the system only
- 18 wants to sell me -- you know, give me four of
- 19 these, but, you know, I know that I'll have
- ²⁰ customers wanting Tylenol PM, so I'm going to
- ²¹ adjust it from 4 to 10, or something like that.
- Similar in the pharmacy, the
- 23 order is going to be generated. The pharmacist
- ²⁴ would have the chance to adjust that order up or

- ¹ down. And an adjustment up or adjustments up
- ² could be -- could be indicative of internal
- ³ theft.
 - Q. Again, this is an indication of
- ⁵ internal theft only. Right?
- A. Yes.
 - Q. It would not be indicative of any
- 8 inappropriate prescribing, for example. Right?
- 9 A. Neither of those two KPIs would
- 10 be indicative of that.
- Q. Were there any KPIs that the - company used to identify inappropriate
- ¹³ prescribing?
- A. I can't see -- again, I wasn't in
- this department the entire time, but I cannot see
- how any NaviStor or NaviScript KPI would be able
- 17 to do that.

Page 190 Page 192 1 A. Yes. ¹ pharmacist realized that he just dispensed 120 2 ² versus 100. And maybe he calls the customer and 0. So are these all investigations ³ involving what you've been talking about as ³ says, hey, you know, could you please bring that 4 shrinkage? ⁴ back, I have made a mistake, or maybe he can't 5 ⁵ reach the customer, or the customer refuses to A. There's two separate bullets ⁶ here. The first bullet, drug loss ⁶ bring it back, you would have a loss. You would ⁷ investigations, the answer there would absolutely ⁷ have a loss of 20. And that loss, you know, 8 be yes. The second -- second part here, not 8 might go on a suspected loss form. But there ⁹ necessarily. ⁹ wouldn't be any investigation because the issue 10 Q. It's broader than just shrinkage ¹⁰ is already known. 11 So what this is saying really is 11 then? 12 That would be a little bit 12 that people should not be conducting drug loss A. ¹³ broader. 13 investigations without my being aware that 14 Okay. Would this also include ¹⁴ they're conducting a drug loss investigation. I Q. any suspicious orders that you were to be realize that's a fine point. notified about? 16 Q. That's a good point. 17 17 So what you're saying is Again, my understanding is 18 suspicious orders is a DC issue, so I don't know there's a -- there has to be an actual 19 how a store or field-level person would be investigation opened for you -- there to be a ²⁰ reporting a suspicious order. requirement that you're notified. Right? Okay. So that as part of your Yes and no. What -- the point we ²² obligations, you know, getting notifications of ²² were trying to -- I was trying to get across here ²³ in this presentation is, nobody should be 23 suspicious orders is not one of the things that ²⁴ you do. Right? conducting a drug loss investigation without the Page 193 Page 191 No, not -- not as a suspicious ² order, my understanding of what a suspicious ² that they're conducting an investigation. ³ order is, no. Q. Okay.

4 I would like to clarify earlier. You indicated that all drug

6 losses had to be reported to me based upon this. ⁷ I would like to clarify that all drug loss

⁸ investigations, you omitted that word, which is rather significant. 9

10 Q. Okay. And so tell me what the 11 significance of just saying -- putting the word 12 "investigations" is.

A. Because if the drug loss was due 13 14 to something known, and there, therefore, wasn't going to be a corresponding investigation, there ¹⁶ would be no need to notify the investigative ¹⁷ body.

18 If, for example, you had -- let's 19 say it's a misfill-type issue, where a pharmacist ²⁰ filled a prescription for 100 tablets of a 21 controlled substance and he thought the bottle ²² was a 100-count bottle and it was a full

23 100-count bottle, but in reality, that particular

²⁴ product came in, say, 120 count, and the

¹ proper investigative oversight body being aware

4 That's really what this was meant Α. to say.

O. Okay. And again, what you're talking about is drug loss. Right? In that first bullet?

A. In the first bullet, yes.

10 Q. Okay. And in the second bullet, you say that it could be somewhat broader. 12

And my question is again, I think that -- I -- you know, we got an answer on this, but let me clarify this.

Did the second bullet also include notification of any suspicious orders? 17 MR. LAVELLE: Object to form.

18 Objection, asked and answered.

19 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I think -- I 20 think I have already explained, not as my 21 understanding of suspicious orders.

22 BY MR. SIMMER:

23 So you were not to get ²⁴ notification of any suspicious orders.

He's wanting to understand details around increase, there was a business need in order to make the increase. Right? 18 this. And I think there's really two things 19 involved here. Number one is the recall of the 19 A. Yes. 20 20 OxyContin product. But number two, as you see Q. It's fair to say that you were satisfied that these pharmacies indeed had a 21 here, I made a speculation in my email here that valid need for this temporary increase. Right? 22 now makes much more sense, which is the move from 23 MR. LAVELLE: Object to form. 23 OxyContin to oxycodone IR. That would have a 24 24 huge impact on thresholds within the base code. THE WITNESS: I would have no Page 239 Page 241 reason to believe otherwise. 1 ¹ So we don't have the in-between conversation, but ² I think that these are related. ² BY MR. SIMMER: 3 Q. Okay. It's also fair to say that Do you see later that same day, 4 you were satisfied that there were no concerns ⁴ actually six minutes later, you respond, "Wow. 5 with these pharmacies' orders being suspicious. Can we input these?" 6 Right? 6 A. Yes. 7 7 A. I would have no reason to believe Q. What are you saying? 8 8 that the orders were suspicious. MR. LAVELLE: Object to form. 9 9 THE WITNESS: I think -- again, 10 10 (Deposition Exhibit No. Rite the shift from OxyContin, which is a 11 11 Aid-Palmer-15, Email chain, top one dated long-acting form, so you would -- with a 12 30 Nov 2010, Bates stamped MCKMDL00628996 12 long-acting medication, you would take 13 and MCKMDL00628997, was marked for 13 fewer units. I hand you what we've marked as shorter-acting product. 18 18 Palmer Exhibit 15. Take a moment to review it. The problem as it impacts these 19 19 I'll identify it for the record as MCKMDL00628996 thresholds and how the threshold process through 628997. 20 was designed is, if you were on the 21 Do you see the email that begins 21 longer-acting product, your dose would 22 this string from Mr. Oriente to you dated 22 be, say, two tablets a day, one in the 23 November 30, 2010? 23 morning, one in the evening. The move to 24 24 A. Yes. the shorter-acting product would mean your dosing might be three tablets every four hours.

Well, that's a change from two units a day to 12 units a day. The overall milligrams might not change, but the threshold goes by units.

So it appears to me that there was some conversation about these issues and the challenges and, you know, that Michael basically put together a bit of a spreadsheet to try and help alleviate that. And I took a look at it and, correspondingly, the effort was to make some kind of adjustment.

- 16 Q. Did you have an understanding of which product was more subject to addiction abuse, short acting or long acting?
- 19 A. I think they both would be 20 subject to abuse.
- 21 0. You don't have an understanding that the short acting is the one that the addicts 23 prefer?
 - No. Because you can bust the A.

- ² that, despite these things, may not need the
- ³ additional product. That would be, to me, not

⁴ the right approach.

So instead, it would make more sense to -- you know, realizing you've got this problem, to put the increase in on stores that are actually hitting that problem and that issue.

And I think that's what this speaks to.

So you see his response back 11 to you later that same day, yes, where he says, ¹² "Andy," I -- or "just updated 102 stores for 13 Oxycodone." 14

16 O. So what he seems to be indicating, that McKesson just updated the threshold limits for oxycodone, that's the generic version, for 102 stores. Right? 20

MR. LAVELLE: Object to form. 21 THE WITNESS: That's a base code. 22 That's not -- again, base -- I would

23 disagree with your characterization of it 24 as the generic version, because base code

- 5 In response, Mr. Oriente asks Q. you, "Do you want 20, 30, 40 or 50% increase?"
- 7 Do you see that?
- 8 Yes. A.
- And then you respond a short time O.
- ¹⁰ later, "I think we did 50% on round 1. Can we do that for this group?"
- 12 Do you see that?
- 13 Yes. A.
 - Q. Okay. What are you talking about

14

- 16 So if I recall the way we handled
- ¹⁷ this issue -- so we obviously have two
- 18 significant issues impacting thresholds within
- 19 this base code. We've got a recall, but more
- ²⁰ importantly, we've got a shift driving more
- ²¹ units, not necessarily more drug but more units.
- 22 You would not handle that
- 23 issue -- or I would suggest not handling that
- ²⁴ issue by blanket increasing every single store,

includes all products, all versions.

Other than that, you're correct.

BY MR. SIMMER:

Q. Fair point.

But he does indicate that he

MS. DORRIS: Object to form.

THE WITNESS: I didn't

10 specifically ask that I can tell for 102

11 stores. But, yes, it would appear that

12 based upon information I don't have as

13 far as how many stores, that based upon the report, he inputted increases for the stores on the report. I'm assuming that 16 was 102, but I can't verify that because

I don't have a spreadsheet in front of

They also learned that this patient may have a history of drug abuse. LPM Stimmel also contacted director of pharmacy loss prevention Andy Palmer with a request to review the patient profile associated with the activity. Palmer grants that permission as being pursuant to an active investigation. A review of the profiles reveal that the suspect's friend is on all of the same medications that happen to be missing from this location.
